

Dairy sensitivity may affect 50% of celiac patients

Mucosal reactivity to cow's milk protein in coeliac disease

G Kristjánsson, P Venge, and R Hällgren

A mucosal inflammatory response similar to that elicited by gluten was produced by CM (cow's milk) protein in about 50% of the patients with coeliac disease. Casein, in particular, seems to be involved in this reaction.

<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC1810502/>